working up to a climax. Bad blood between Biggs and Jiggs in the mountain section of northeastern Pennsylvania came apace when Biggs put up a fence which blocked an old cowpath and Jiggs' cattle were called upon to detour. Jiggs tore the fence down, Biggs put it up again; then Jiggs demolished it once more. Biggs went to an attorney and asked what he could do. The lawyer said, "It is trespass. I can sue him for you. The jury will be about $10." Biggs produced a greasy wallet and $20 in currency and said: "I want you to law me at sucker. I want him lawed a good $20 worth. As soon as you get the case started call him a blankety-blank"—a colloquial epithet in the English language, any of which would have meant contempt proceedings by the court. "After that," continued Biggs, "begin to warm up gradual and leave him know that when I law a man I law him proper."

A detailed black and white illustration of a busy city street scene, likely New York City. The view is from an elevated position looking down a wide street. On the left, a large building with a sign that reads "HOME SAVINGS BANK" is prominent. Below it, a sign for "J. & W. GARDNER" is visible. The street is filled with a large crowd of people, many wearing hats and coats, and several horse-drawn carriages. A large, ornate building with a dome and a clock tower is visible in the background on the right. The scene is framed by a decorative border.

The logo is a circular emblem. At the top, the word "SO" is written in a large, bold, sans-serif font. Below it, the word "CONY" is written in a similar font, with the letters "O", "N", and "Y" being significantly larger and more prominent. In the center, the words "MOTOR" and "GASOLINE" are stacked vertically in a bold, sans-serif font. At the bottom, the text "A PRODUCT OF NEW YORK" is written in a smaller, sans-serif font. The entire logo is enclosed within a circular border.

EXCHANGES AND THE INCOME TAX

The following statement is issued by the collector of internal revenue for the 14th district of New York:

Numerous inquiries have been received by the bureau of internal revenue concerning section 202 (c) of the revenue act of 1921, which provides that for the purpose of the income tax no gain or loss shall be recognized when property held for investment or for productive use in trade or business (not including property for sale) is exchanged for property of a like kind or use.

Many taxpayers and salesmen of securities are interpreting this to mean that all sales of securities and the immediate purchase of like securities are exchanges resulting in gain or loss. Such interpretation of the law and regulation is erroneous.

The bureau realizes that in many cases it is difficult to determine whether the transaction is a true exchange or really a sale and reinvestment of the proceeds in other securities. To constitute an exchange within the meaning of section 202 (c) the transaction must be a transfer of property for a consideration as distinguished from a transfer of property for a money consideration. In such an exchange the principal would pay a commission to the other, although if a broker in his capacity, as such, is paid a commission for his services, it would not of itself take the transaction out of the classification of an exchange.

If a person owning one hundred shares of stock in "A" corporation should instruct a broker to exchange them for shares of stock in "B" corporation, it would be essential in order to bring the transaction within the meaning of the exchange provisions of the revenue act that the person owning the shares of "A" corporation should receive the one hundred shares of "B" corporation stock. The stock of "A" corporation should be treated by each party as taking the place of the property exchanged. If, on the other hand, the instruction to the broker is in effect to sell one hundred shares of stock in "A" corporation and invest the proceeds in shares of stock in "B" corporation, the transaction can not be treated as an exchange but as a sale of "A" corporation stock and a purchase of "B" corporation stock. The element of exchange in this case is lacking as there is no reciprocal transfer of securities between principals unless by coincidence.

Where the broker in the transaction whatever his instructions may sell the stock in "A" corporation and then buys the stock in "B" corporation, or buys the stock in "B" corporation and then sells the stock in "A" corporation, there is an intermediate time, however short, during which one or both of the customers could have title to no securities whatever. In a true exchange the selling of title to the stock in the "A" corporation and acquisition of title to the stock in the "B" corporation, and vice versa, would be simultaneous as to both parties to the exchange.

In all cases where there is a doubt as to whether the transaction is a sale or exchange, all facts connected with the transaction should be submitted to the Bureau of Internal Revenue for a ruling in the matter.

INDICTMENTS IN POUGHKEEPSIE BOOZE CASE

Edward M. Taylor and Detective Joseph V. Shelly of Poughkeepsie were indicted Monday by the Dutchess county grand jury and were each held under $5000 bail. Both were indicted when arraigned and through their attorneys pleaded guilty and were given until Tuesday, August 1, to change their pleas if they desire. Taylor's indictment is for conspiracy with Shelly's for conspiracy and with Shelly's for conspiracy and with Shelly's for conspiracy and with Shelly's for conspiracy.

Canoe Mystery Unsolved.

The mystery of the upset canoe at Kingston Point Sunday evening is still unsolved. Monday afternoon one of the local hoteliers set up and stated that a guest who registered Sunday evening did not return. The boat was taken to the hotel and the clerk stated it did not fit the missing guest. Monday morning a young girl called at the hotel and examined the boat which was found in the river but did not identify it. The boat, as stated Monday, was upturned by a young man about 25 years old. He had disappeared and feared he may have drowned in the canoe upset in the river.

KINGSTON LABORER GOT SOME NEWBURN "HOOCH"

The Newburgh News says.

Judge Decker was not hard on John Clark, 63, single, a laborer, who was arraigned before him this morning. Arrested on a charge of public intoxication, Clark pleaded guilty. He had in his possession $5.50. In order to allow him to leave Newburgh and reach his place of employment, which is outside Kingston, Judge Decker imposed a sentence of $4.50 or five days in the county jail. Clark was therefore able to pay his fine and still have his traveling expenses. He told the judge that he came to Newburgh for a pair of shoes. His home is in Haverstraw, but he is working near Kingston. When he came to Newburgh he met a man who was "broke." The man asked him if he would stand him a drink and Clark agreed. The man led the way and Clark said he remembered no more.

Patrolman Burger arrested Clark in Mill street on Sunday morning. He was standing in the middle of the road, trying to stop automobiles and was in danger of being knocked down. When the officer told him to move away he became abusive and he was placed under arrest. The officer called a taxi and while taking the man to the police station curses were showered on the officer. In the police station he was still abusive and he even damaged some of the fixtures in the cells. Clark told the judge he was very much ashamed of his conduct. He also added he did not want the "vacation," as winter was coming round and he wanted to work and have something saved by then.

RECEIVES INJURIES IN CAR COLLISION

A seven passenger Packard touring car owned and driven by Harry Whitney of New York City crashed into the Chevrolet car driven by Burt Canale of Glasco Sunday afternoon on Ulster avenue, Saugerties and resulted in Cort Hansenberg of New York City, who was riding in the front seat of the Packard car being taken to the Benedictine Hospital this city, with injuries received by flying glass from the broken windshield. None of the other occupants were injured.

The result of the impact was a wrecked Chevrolet, while the Packard car came out with a bent fender and bumper. No arrests were made, but neither of the drivers took the blame and the case will probably come up in court.

BRITISH PROSPERITY CERTAIN.

The great value of the territorial advantages acquired by Great Britain as a result of the war has been frequently commented upon in America, but it has been generally ignored in England, probably for the reason that Britain would like to have the rest of the world overlook the facts. Now, however, indirect admissions are being made by British writers. In a recent article in an American commercial periodical, E. C. Chappell tells of the plans of Great Britain to develop her tropical colonies and asserts that in certain portions of Africa the colonial possessions are not only more than half the size of Europe but "infinitely richer in soil and minerals."

Under her mandates, Great Britain took over control of former German East Africa and German Southwest Africa, which former German colonies adjoin colonies already under British dominion. Through her control of transportation, Great Britain is now in a dominant position in almost the whole continent of Africa—infinitely richer in soil and minerals than the continent of Europe. Throughout all the discussion over proposed cancellation of debts, spokesmen of Great Britain have been careful to maintain a discreet silence regarding the value of her share of the spoils of war. Great stress was laid upon the fact that the United States was late in entering the war, that this country reaped considerable profits from the war before the United States entered the conflict, and that it would be difficult for Great Britain to pay the debts, and probably impossible for some of the others. When Americans insisted upon remarking upon the immense wealth that came to Great Britain because of the victory over Germany, the internationalists accused them of trying to create bad feeling between this country and England.

Mr. Chappell does not specifically mention the mandated territory, but points out that there are almost unlimited opportunities for development, in the process of which British capital and British labor will find profitable employment, since "all plant for railroads, port development, road making, agriculture, etc., is to be supplied by British manufacturers."

Of course, technically, equal opportunities must be offered to enterprise from other countries, in the mandated territories, but since the territories are under British law administered by Englishmen, and British capital controls the railroads and probably will control most of the ocean shipping, capitalists of other nations will be at a disadvantage. Britain will reap the rewards.

The United States will not complain much of this, provided no legal restrictions are imposed in violation of our rights. If we cannot maintain a merchant marine and develop trade in Africa, we must be content to see some one else get the advantage. But, at the same time, we shall experience a constantly lessening sympathy for any plea for the cancellation of war debts. Great Britain is abundantly able to pay—and may be able to pay out of the wealth ultimately resulting from her share of the spoils of war.

BLUE BLOOD FOR SALE.

For two generations or more American women of wealth when so minded have been able to enter and bring up their children in the most exclusive aristocracy of Europe. The political convulsions of the last few years have now opened a similar door to American men of wealth. The American of this class may not only choose voluntarily to marry a princess of a dispossessed royal family, as young Leeds did recently, but is even tempted to do so by carefully worded invitations in advertising columns. About a year ago an impoverished Austrian Archduchess advertised for and secured a rich husband, and now an Innsbruck, Switzerland newspaper, contains the following announcement: "Two royal princesses, sisters aged 23 and 26, desire friend, ship and eventually marriage, after mutual tests, with English or American gentlemen, who must be young, wealthy and handsome, especially not upstart, or newly rich. The price cases, who belong to the old royalty, are accomplished, but very poor. The gentlemen must give full details and references. A meeting could be arranged for August."

It will not be difficult for those poor desperate princesses to get what they want, except perhaps in one particular. Only our social climbers of the "newly rich" variety are likely to be content with royal blood alone. Royal ladies are not always handsome or otherwise attractive and the rich American of assured social standing is apt to want something more than even the bluest blood. But if the granddaughter of a king is forced to accept the rich grandson of an American blacksmith, she may find him a pretty good fellow after all and nobody will be the wiser a hundred years hence.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How deep should tree seeds be planted?
2. Why do voles and field mice increase so much faster than ordinary animals?
3. We have quantities of mock-inbirds in an oak wood near our house, but blue jays drive them away. How does one get rid of the jays?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Please tell me the name of a beautiful little bird seen fluttering in an evergreen grove and keeping its wings going something like a hummingbird. It was mostly black, with a salmon pink patch on the tail, which kept opening and shutting.

Male red-start, Setophaga ruticilla, one of the warblers. Also has pinkish-orange stripe across wings and at shoulders. Central tail quills are all black and all tail quills are black at tip, dividing the orange into 2 patches. Female is marked on same pattern, but is grayish olive where male is black, and lemon yellow where he is orange-pink.

2. Where does the kangaroo rat live, and is it harmful?

It is an underground dweller, using a burrow which frequently has at least one of its openings under a bush of some sort, yuccas being especially favored, as their spiny leaves prevent attacking animals from springing upon a retreating kangaroo rat. These small animals eat chiefly weed seed and are not generally counted harmful, though they do sometimes steal some grain.

3. Can turtles make any noise?

At breeding time the males tend to become vocal. The Gopher tortoise, found along the Atlantic coast from S. Carolina to Florida and westward to parts of Texas, has a short, sharp, quickly repeated note. The painted turtle makes a shrill piping as a love song. When alarmed, the common box turtle can give out a distinct hiss.

SUNDAY'S SERMON TO ASSOCIATED DUTCH CHURCHES.

The Reverend Lucas Boeve, the new domine of the First Dutch, now that he fairly is settled in the pulpit of that historic church, fully justifies all that was predicted of him when the call to it was extended. Preaching to the united congregations of the First and Second Dutch Churches on Sunday, he took for his text the 12th verse of the 13th chapter of Isaiah: "I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir." The domine said that the Lord speaking through Isaiah, meant that a real man of sterling character, honest, true, sane, reliable, was the most precious thing in the world. So it was in the days of the great Hebrew prophet; so it was today, and would remain to the end of time. The church, the city, the state, the nation that produced such men always had ranked higher in the annals of history than those which produced merely men of wealth and power no matter how opulent and influential the latter might be. Character was the great factor in the development and standing of communities. Kingston always had been noted for the character of its men. Sometimes in this materialistic age it seemed that the rising generation was oblivious of the truth of the prophet's utterance. A prevalent gospel teaches that society is nothing more than the field of selfish acquisition. That the successful man is he who is able to obtain the last bit of profit. No one who has studied with any degree of care the history of either ancient or modern civilization, or who even superficially has analyzed modern society can reach but one conclusion regarding the inevitable and destructive outcome of this pernicious doctrine. The youth of today would do well to discard it and unhesitatingly accept the Biblical estimate of values. For the experience of the ages has demonstrated that character survives when all else vanishes.

Mr. Boeve has the happy faculty of interpolating pungent anecdotes to illustrate the point he seeks to make. On Sunday by way of indicating the difference between wealth and character he said a noted Scotch head, gardener married a rich widow. Some time afterwards the laird of the manor asked him what sort of a wife she made. "Weel," said Sandy, "nae doubt she's the Lord's handiwork, but I would nae call her His masterpiece."

Thoughts After Forty.
For some reason it always makes a wife happy when some man asks if her husband isn't her father.

VETS' MOUNTAIN CAMP PAID FOR

Officers and Directors Named and Work on Camp Is Being Rushed to Completion—Has 1,275 Acres on Big Tupper Lake.

Announcement was made yesterday at the headquarters of the Veterans' Mountain Camp of the American Legion, Department of New York, 50 Church street, New York City, of the election of the following officers: Charles Pope Caldwell, Forest Hills, Long Island, president; Thomas H. Skinner, Kenwood, New York, first vice-president; William E. Flanders, Norwood, New York second vice-president; Samuel Lloyd, M. D., New York City, treasurer; Edward J. Kleley, Jr., Jamaica, Long Island, secretary.

The board of directors of the new corporation in addition to the officers named are as follows: William F. Deegan, state commander, Bronx, New York; A. S. Callan, Chatham, New York; Robert C. Booth, Plattsburgh; Percival H. Case, Rochester; James M. Blackwell, New York City; Donald C. Strong, Brooklyn; Edward M. Scheibling, Albany; Charles E. Coffey, Ithaca; R. C. Hill, M. D., Bath; Bernard Ryan, Albion, and Elmer H. Lemon, Newburgh.

The board of directors is composed of the members of the Legion's State Executive Committee at the present time. However, at the recent meeting of the board, a resolution was passed directing the officers to provide that after the next state convention to be held in Syracuse in September that the board of directors consist of forty-two members, composed of the state executive committee, plus three members from each judicial district in the state to be elected by the representatives attending the state convention.

It was also announced that the property for the mountain camp, which is situated at Paradise Point, Big Tupper Lake, New York, had been paid for in full, $85,000 cash. Thus the property is held without obligation. The attorneys for the camp have also filed a petition to exempt the property from taxation and the officers are now at work putting the camp in condition for the receipt of patients.

The executive committee of the camp was directed to select a medical board and a medical superintendent and through them to organize the necessary staff to operate the camp as a convalescent hospital. Every effort is being made to expedite the work so that the camp may be opened at the earliest possible moment.

"Thus we see the difference between the manner in which the Legion and the government has taken care of the sick and disabled," Mr. Caldwell said. "In 1919, money was appropriated by Congress for a tubercular sanitarium in the Adirondacks. The site has not yet been selected. Last November, a resolution was passed at the Legion State Convention in Jamestown to take up the matter of an American Legion Mountain Camp for veterans of the World War who were disabled and sick. In December, the committee was appointed. In January an option was taken upon the camp site, at Tupper Lake. In February the earnest money was paid. In March the title was appraised. In April the title was purchased and we expect the camp will be open in a very short while." The camp has 1,275 acres of land and is situated on Paradise Point jutting out into Big Tupper Lake. It was formerly the summer camp of an exceedingly wealthy man and is ideal for tubercular veterans and those otherwise ill who cannot prove that their illness was incurred in service, Mr. Caldwell said. He added, it was supported entirely by voluntary subscriptions.

PACKAGE WHEN DELIVERED PROVES TO BE BABY.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, July 18.—Early this morning an unidentified person called Miss Elizabeth Brower at her Brooklyn residence by telephone and said:

"A package will arrive; take good care of it."

Puzzled, Miss Brower told the family about the mysterious message. They advised her to pay no attention to it.

Then at 2 a. m. the family was awakened by a crying sound in the hallway. A week-old infant wrapped in a blanket was found, and to the covering was pinned this note:

"Dear Elizabeth—It is with great sorrow that I had to do anything like this. I am just out of a hospital and haven't seen my husband for three months. I seem to know that you will take care of the child. Please have him baptized. I will make good to you for your care. I will make myself known to you when I call in a week. For God's sake, don't turn him away."

"I stood on the street a long time before I did this. The baby is a week old. I have no money but expect to get work soon and then I will repay you."

A FRIEND.

The baby was fully dressed and had a pacifier in its mouth. And it was crying lustily—very lustily, despite the pacifier.

Police were called and the baby taken to Kings County Hospital.

Miss Brower told detectives that she formerly had worked in an office with other girls—who frequently told her their troubles—and she presumed that one of these was the mother of the child, but could not say which one it might be.

MARRIED HERE, COUPLE ARE HELD APART

Rose Krakower and Joseph Gaultier, who were married in this city, two months ago are now living apart in Poughkeepsie, because her father, Louis Krakower, objects to her marriage and she is under 18 years of age. Krakower claimed the difficulty was the question of religion and would not consent to the marriage under any conditions. Justice Morschauser informed the father that on the statement of the girl she was about four months under age and that the marriage could be annulled, but he could not see what the satisfaction could afford him as they apparently loved each other and just as soon as she became of age they would marry. A hearing will be held some time this week.

SWINISH AUTOIST BEATS UP NEW ROAD GUARDIAN

State troopers are searching for a man who is reported to have assaulted the watchman who guards the entrance to the section of state road under repairs near Milton. For some time past it has been necessary to take a long detour between Marlborough and Milton while the regular state road has been under extensive repair. While these repairs have been under way, only persons living on the road have been allowed to use it, and at the detour road, the state highway has been blocked by a barricade.

To prevent the spoiling of the road surface in the final stages of repair, a watchman has been placed at this point. On Sunday, there was considerable traffic in both directions. Many of the autoists objected to being forced to make the detour, but were compelled to.

About 10 o'clock on Sunday night one party, said to be bound for Highland or Milton was specially anxious to use the new road and one of them is said to have "beat up" the watchman when he refused to let them pass.

CASE OF SLUMPS HIT GALLUPERS

Ball Tossers of Mountain League Victims of the Wiles of an Imported Siren—Roodboy Solves Base Plot of the Busters and Puts Heartbreaker to Flight.

There was no use talking the Gallupers had struck a slump and as a result had dropped three straight games to their hated rivals, the Busters, in the famous Mountain League. Captain Roodboy was worried and nervous in trying to locate the cause of the poor ballmanship put up by his husky ball tossers. The more he gave the matter thought the more deeply he became convinced that his deadly rival, Captain Twin Gormley of the Busters, was hidden somewhere in the woodpile slump.

"There's no use talking but the boys will have to take a brace or we will drop tomorrow's game sure," he muttered aloud to himself as he stood alone on the hotel porch after seeing his ball club safely to bed.

"Well they can't dance all night and expect to play fall ball the next day," said an old fan who happened to stroll by and had overheard Captain Roodboy's remarks to himself.

"What's that?" asked Roodboy sharply.

The old fan repeated his statement. "Nonsense," retorted Roodboy "the boys are all in bed and asleep by this time."

"Like Jake they are," replied the old fan "for I just came by the dance hall and they were all surrounding one dame, and urging her to let them have just one more dance."

Captain Roodboy hardly knew what to make of the statement and hastening upstairs he entered the rooms of the players and found that not a bed had been slept in.

It was not for nothing that Roodboy was known as one of the brainiest players in the Mountain League, and instead of making an uproar he hid himself quietly to the dance and peered in unperceived by his players. They were all at the dance and they were all plainly head over heels in love with the strange dame. Roodboy after an eye full was hardly able to blame them.

His conviction that Twin Gormley was back of the slump became a certainty when he perceived Gormley motion to the dame to meet him outside. Here was an opportunity to prove Roodboy's theory and he quietly hid under the porch and shamelessly listened to the conversation between the dame and Gormley. It proved his belief and that was all that he cared for. Gormley congratulated the girl on the success she was having in making fools of Roodboy's ballplayers, and said if she would keep it up for at least a week he would see that she was well repaid for her trouble.

"I guess not," muttered Roodboy to himself "now that I know what the trouble is I guess I can cook up a scheme to break up this pretty little plot."

Roodboy's actions the following hour would have mystified any who saw them for he was busy gathering sprigs of a little green vine that grew out in the fields, near an old stone wall. After securing all he needed, he hurried back to the hotel and placed a sprig in the bed of every player on the team.

The following morning they were a sick looking bunch. Red blotches had broken out on their face and hands and the strange little dame when she met them gave off a scream. "Smallpox" and lit out of town on the next train.

If she had been a country bred girl she would have easily recognized the symptoms of poison ivy. As for the Gallupers they were all husky cusses and so tough that it did not bother their playing that afternoon at all. They won by a score of 6 to 5 and the slump was broken.

Sewer Pipe Replaced. Policemen were kept busy Monday evening directing traffic on Broadway at Chestnut street while the sewer pipes at that place were being renewed. Both East and West Chestnut hills and the Broadway grade made this spot very dangerous. The wet willie also added to the possibility of a collision. Men worked all night and expect to complete the job today.

Happiness

Happiness requires a hopeful, easy mind. Women who suffer from foot troubles find it difficult to retain hopeful, easy minds. Now that comfortable footwear is so fashionable, more and more women are beginning to appreciate how much more hopeful, easier-minded and happier they are in shoes that ease every step.

There is a Cantilever Shoe designed to fit your foot. It is shaped trimly and fashionably, but with consideration of the natural lines of your foot. Like your own foot, it has a flexible arch.

No steel shank-piece such as is inserted in ordinary shoes restricts the free action of your ligaments and muscles. Laced up, it provides just the degree of support you find your arch needs. This flexibility corrects weakened arches, exercises foot muscles as they desire to be exercised, improves your circulation, and adds to your vigor and color. Let us convince you how much comfortable but good looking Cantilevers can add to your happiness.

CHERISH WORLD WAR RELIC

Pillar From Altar of Church in Ruined Village of Belleau at National Headquarters.

One of the most treasured of the many World War relics being gathered at the American Legion's national headquarters, Indianapolis, Ind., is that just received from the battlefields of France. It is a pillar from the altar of a church which once stood in the ruined village of Belleau, adjacent the famed wood of that name, near Chateau-Thierry.

The wooden pillar bears honorable scars, those suffered when scores of German high-explosive shells crashed into the little church. One shell fragment all but tore the pillar in halves, but when the marines and the infantry had driven back the enemy and recaptured the town, far beneath the mass of stone and mortar the altar was found intact.

Upon returning to their devastated home the French villagers looked upon the little altar as a good omen and set about to clear up their ruined church building. Later they removed one of the altar pillars, and after appropriate ceremonies, sent it to America as the gift of appreciation of the commune of Belleau to the Yankee regiments, through their organization of the Legion. The pillar is carefully preserved at the Legion's headquarters, protected by the French and American flags.

WILL PAY THE BUCKEYE BOYS

Robert Roberts, Former Commander of Ohio Department, Will Disburse.

The payment of $25,000,000 to nearly a quarter of a million of ex-servicemen is the task which has been assigned to Robert R. Roberts of Youngstown, O., former vice-commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion. Mr. Roberts is director of adjusted compensation in Ohio.

A sergeant major in the Thirty-seventh division during the World War, Mr. Roberts has been employed in the Carnegie Steel mills in Youngstown. His selection by the state sinking fund commission was viewed as a victory for the American Legion, which has endeavored to keep the payment operations of the compensation law out of politics.

Ohio is paying $10 for every month's service to a maximum of $250 to all World War fighters.

"Listened In" on MacNider. "Listening in" a thousand miles away, American Legion men at Chateau-Thierry, Minn., heard Hamilton MacNider deliver an address on adjusted compensation before an audience in Pittsburgh, Pa. If the speaker had known how large his audience really was he probably would have spoken louder.

The Silent Partner. "Does you take this woman for the lawfully wedded wife?" asked the colored parson, glancing at the diminutive, watery-eyed, bow-legged bridegroom, who stood beside two hundred and ten pounds of feminine assurance. "Ah takes nothin'," gloomily responded the bridegroom. "Ah's been looked."—American Legion Weekly.

Elizabeth's Coaches Aroused Envy. In the end the husbands capitulated, and after a while divers great ladies, with as great jealousy of the queen's displeasure made them coaches, and rid them up and down the country to the great admiration of all be-holders.

LEGION 'QUEEN' IS DIPLOMAT

Miss Ruth Metcalf, Burlington (Ia.) Girl, Names Her Brother Carnival "King."

Women began practicing the art of diplomacy when Eve was about three days old, and the present generation of fair ones are not so bad at it, the world knows. Even the distinguished foreign diplomats who wear red stripes across their hatted shirts at formal dinners will give the palm to a sweet Iowa girl, however, and if they hesitate, a number of Iowa men might have a word to say that would prompt them.

It happened that the American Legion of Burlington, Ia., having a high carnival and desiring a queen, chose one. The girl selected for her outstanding beauty, wit, and spirit was Miss Ruth Metcalf, who later displayed tact. Miss Metcalf being duly and fittingly crowned queen, now would choose one of the ex-soldiers as king. It was announced, whereat some hundreds of assorted male beauties struck attitudes of attention. After looking closely over the assembled Legionnaires, Miss Metcalf calmly picked out her own brother and crowned him king. Whereupon the issue was settled with nice diplomacy and the big carnival parade got under way.

ENDED SITTING BULL'S REIGN

Chief Red Tomahawk, Sioux Warrior, and Commander MacNider Smoke Pipe of Peace.

Since the passing of the dime novel, the 40 redskins who used to bite the dust so frequently have become lost to the world. But the exploits of old Sitting Bull may well be remembered, even today, when the marble-shooting generation is reading deep volumes that puzzle exasperated parents.

Sitting Bull also bit the dust in approved fashion and, while touring through Hamrick, N. D., recently, Hamilton MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, had the pleasure of meeting the gentleman who caused the Bull's downfall. It was none other than old Chief Red Tomahawk, Sioux warrior, who some years ago captured Sitting Bull's belt, and who came from the reservation to greet the big chief of the white tribe. With Red Tomahawk came a number of the younger Sioux braves who fought in France with the A. E. F. and gave the Germans the surprise of their lives.

While in North Dakota Mr. MacNider smoked a peace pipe with the Sioux chief and received congratulations of the chief of the first Americans for the organization which is endeavoring to keep America for the present Americans.

Physical Deterioration. "Physicists' examinations of regular army officers show the most clear evidence of physical deterioration which is due to strain incident to the World War," the army medical department reports. That investigation may bring to light a scientific explanation of some of the restlessness among former soldiers which can be laid to their having undergone a severe nervous strain.

Alaska Has the Wealth. Alaska could not only pay for adjusted compensation, if it were rightly developed, but the whole war debt besides, according to Albert R. Fall, secretary of the interior. What is believed to be the greatest oil field in the world is in the Arctic near the Aleutian Islands. A tremendous coal belt in Alaska is undeveloped, and the greatest copper mine in the world as well.

Legion Asks for New Law. "Oh-o-o say can you see?" The band-organ man ground out the national anthem and the monkey danced and squinted his sharp eyes. Then the band-organ man passed the hat. But in New York state he will have to change his tune, if the American Legion gets its bill through the legislature prohibiting the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" for the purpose of collecting money.

30 FIREMEN HURT IN N. Y. FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 18.—Thirty firemen were hurt, one of them so seriously that he subsequently died, in two terrific explosions during a five-alarm fire which wrecked the big six-story warehouse of the Manhattan Storage Transit Company, 245-253 West Twelfth street, today.

A dozen or more residents of the neighborhood, the majority of them women, were hurt by flying debris from the blasts.

Early reports reaching police headquarters were that large quantities of smokeless powder, magnesia, potash, sulphur and other chemicals were stored in the building.

The injured firemen were all members of Company No. 33. It was reported that they had been caught in the back draft of an explosion on the ground floor of the building.

One side of the building was blown out by a terrific explosion of chemicals.

The fire was discovered shortly after 8 o'clock and soon the flames had swept through the entire building. The explosions, which locked buildings and broke windows throughout the vicinity, caused consternation in Greenwich Village. Bohemians and near-Bohemians were aroused from sleep and some established new records by getting their clothes on before 9 o'clock.

A tremendous crowd collected in streets near the fire and police reserves were necessary to keep them beyond the danger lines.

Employees of the warehouse at first said they thought that the explosions were caused by potash stored in the building.

The rumbling explosions were accompanied by vivid flashes of blue flames which kept the firemen back. Meanwhile dense clouds of acrid fumes and smoke from burning chemicals, fanned by wind, were drifting over Greenwich Village.

The task of fighting the fire was made so difficult by the explosions and the smoke that the firemen, even armed with gas masks could not approach within striking distance of the flames.

The fireman who died from his injuries was Lieut. John H. Schoppmeyer, a member of "Hoodoo Company," No. 13. He was mortally injured when fragments of a falling cornice struck him on the head.

Last rites were administered by a Catholic priest while the fireman lay dying in the street.

The entire crew of Engine Company No. 13, fighting the flames with a dock pipe in front of the building, were blown from their apparatus by one of the blasts.

Scores of excited women ran from their homes in terror with the first two explosions—some of them leaving panic-stricken children behind. Children of the vicinity were hysterical with excitement and fear.

Firemen and patrolmen went through all the nearby tenements, warning the residents to leave. They feared that the fire would spread, but it was controlled after a two-hour battle.

HARDING'S STATEMENT INVITING OPERATORS TO GO BACK TO MINES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, July 18.—President Harding yesterday in the following statement invited bituminous mine operators who notified him at the White House of their acceptance of his offer of arbitration in the coal strike to "return to your mine properties and resume operations."

Gentlemen:
I have your decision. I would not be frank if I did not confess a disappointment of your lack of unanimity. To the large majority of you, who have pledged readiness to resume activity under the government's proposal, I must express my own and the public's gratitude.

We have now reached a point, owing to the refusal of mine workers and the minority of your operators to accept the proposed arbitration, where the good offices of the government, in seeking a voluntary adjustment of the dispute between mine operators and mine workers, are without avail.

I cannot permit you to depart without reminding you that coal is a national necessity, the ample supply of which is essential likewise to common welfare and interstate commerce.

The freedom of action on the part of workers and on the part of employers does not measure in importance with that of public welfare and national security. I therefore invite you to return to your mine properties and resume operations.

FOUR SHOT IN BATTLE WITH N. Y. AUTO THIEVES

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, July 18.—Four persons were shot in a running revolver battle in the streets today when automobile police pursued and captured Charles Clark, alleged to have been caught trying to steal an automobile from Louis Saloway, restaurant owner.

When Clark and his associates were discovered by Saloway tampering with his car, one of the bandits shot Saloway in the shoulder and the leg, and fled.

Clark commandeered a taxi driven by James de Silva and ordered him to "drive like hell."

The shot that felled Saloway attracted Sergeant Cohen and Patrolman Weber, on patrol in an automobile. They pursued Clark, and in the running battle that followed, more than a hundred shots were fired.

De Silva, the chauffeur, was struck in the head by a bullet fired by his passenger. The desperado was shot in the head by Patrolman Toher as the taxi passed Toher's home. De Silva then stopped the car and Clark was taken to the Harlem Hospital where it was said he might not recover.

Patrolman Crawley, who joined in the firing at the fleeing taxi enroute, was shot in the knee.

The two bandits who were with Clark, took to their heels when the disturbance started and made a clean getaway.

WAYCROSS QUIET; TROOPS ON WAY

Tense Feeling Exists Following Fighting Precipitated by Heading of Two Shop Strike Breakers.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Brunswick, Ga., July 18.—Three companies of Georgia state troops departed today from St. Simon's Island, off this port, for Waycross, Ga., where railway strike disorders occurred late yesterday. No new troubles were reported today, and it was said action was taken to prevent any new outbreak.

The troops are under command of Major L. C. Cope.

Waycross, Ga., July 18.—Waycross was quiet but tense today following disorders which over-spread the city and resulted in appeals to Governor Hardwick to send troops to put down trouble between striking railroad shop workers and men who had taken their places.

Fighting started when two men who were repairing an engine were attacked. They were severely beaten. A number of other men, said to be strikebreakers, were forced to leave the city.

Napoleon's Original Tomb.
The original tomb of Napoleon at St. Helena has fallen into a state of disrepair since the body was removed in state to the Invalides in Paris, according to a letter received from a recent visitor to that remote island.

"I walked the five and one-half miles up hill to Longwood, Napoleon's old home," the writer says, "and inspected his much-neglected tomb, which is down in a deep corner of a deep valley—just a slab covered with dirty whitewash—no inscription whatever. The grass around was unkempt, and surrounded by a circle, about twenty paces in diameter, of tall trees, and there was nothing anywhere to tell the visitor when the body was removed or to whom the old tomb had belonged."

Reasonable Request.
A justice of the peace, who had officiated at a marriage in his office a month previously, received the following note signed jointly by bride and groom:

"Dear Judge: You remember making us two men and wife four weeks ago? Well, everything seemed all right then. We each seemed just the right person to the other.

"But since then things have changed and reflection has convinced us that it must have been a case of mistaken identity. So if you will revoke our license on that ground you will greatly oblige.

(Signed) JOHN HOWARD,
MILLIE HOWARD."

The Sensitive Arab.
The Arabs form their judgments on externals that we ignore so it is vitally important that a stranger should watch every movement that he makes and every word that he says during his first weeks of association with a tribe. No where is it so difficult to atone for a bad start as with the Bedouins. To illustrate the importance the Bedouins place on externals, on one occasion a British officer went up country and on the first night when the guest of a Howaita sheik he sat down on the guest rug of honor with his feet stretched out in front of him. That officer was never popular with the Howaitas. The Bedouins regard it as bad manners to make your feet conspicuous.

Inspiration for National Flag?
The original troop standard presented to the First City troop of Philadelphia by Captain Markoe, in 1775, and now preserved in its armory, is the earliest example of the thirteen stripes being used in an American banner, and is acknowledged by flag historians to possess the best claim to having been the inspiration for the national flag. The First City troop is the oldest organization in the United States that has maintained a continuous active military existence and taken part in every war in which volunteer cavalry has served.—Detroit News.

Ornaments to Conservatory.
It is rare to walk through a greenhouse without seeing one or more specimens of the curious plant, the cactus. The plant's grotesque and peculiar appearance furnishes an oddity that is welcomed in almost any conservatory. The night-blooming cactus is the most gorgeous of any. It blooms only one night, but while it is open it is almost unrivaled in its magnificent form, lovely colors and the beauty of its stamens, as well as its great fragrance.

Safety Lunches.
When animals like cows, sheep or deer go through the performance of "chewing the cud" they are carrying out a function which their ancestors discovered was a means of aiding them to escape from their enemies. These animals of long ago were always in danger of attack, so they got into the habit of eating as much grass and herbage as they could in a short time, and then retiring to a place of safety. The grass was stored in a special chamber, and once out of harm's way, the animals proceeded to re-chew the food and swallow it again.

Attract Ducks to Nests.
The elder duck of Iceland is exceptionally fond of bright colors and musical sounds, and at the approach of the breeding season the natives hang out gay-colored rags and bells in order to attract the attention of the ducks to the nests which have been carefully prepared for them on shore.

Sarah Bernhardt's Philosophy.
Life is very good to us. One need never grow old. One can only die once. Why begin to die before one must? Life is always new—is always gay. Life is good, life is like a dancing flame.—Sarah Bernhardt.

INQUEST BEGINS AT WELLSBURG

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Wellsburg, W. Va., July 18.—In the courthouse here this morning, the formal probe into the mine war at Cliftonville, Brooke county, in which Sheriff H. M. Duval and three miners met their death, was begun by Coroner J. B. Watkinson. The inquest is expected to be an exhaustive one and will be preliminary to a grand jury investigation to be held as soon as a judge is available.

Word from Steubenville this morning was to the effect that three of the miners wounded in yesterday's battle were hardly likely to survive their wounds today.

Last night a detail of state troops from Keever, W. Va., arrived and were taken by automobile to Cliftonville, where all is quiet. The situation is not regarded as threatening today.

PRINCE OF WALES BEST MAN FOR MOUNTBATTEN
Who Weds Miss Ashley, Richest Girl in England.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, July 18.—The Prince of Wales was best man today at the wedding of Prince Louis Mountbatten, nephew of King George, and Miss Edwina Ashley, the richest girl in Great Britain.

King George, Queen Mary, the Viscountess Lascelles and other members of the royal family were present.

Bluejackets from the battleship Renown, upon which the Prince of Wales journeyed to India, were especially invited guests.

It was announced that the bride and groom would postpone their honeymoon until autumn when they will go to the United States.

Lord Mountbatten was originally known as Lord Battenberg, but owing to the hostility of the British to all things German in war time, he had his name changed.

Miss Ashley is the daughter of the late Lieut. W. W. Ashley, one of the richest men in England.

Motto of State of Kentucky.
"United we stand, divided we fall," is the motto of the state of Kentucky. It is of Greek origin, having been used in ancient times by the admirers of Solon, and formed the basis for the famous fable in which a father proved to his sons the value of standing together. He showed how easy it was to break even a stout stick, but that as soon as a number of far thinner ones were tied together human hands were unable to break them. The Latin "E Pluribus Unum," meaning "all for one," is another version of the expression. Mark Twain, in his humorous way, refers to Kentucky's motto, saying: "The armorial crest of my own state consisted of two disolute bears holding up the head of a dead and gone cask between them and making the pertinent remark, 'United we stand, divided we fall!'"

Plants and Flowers
Growing plants and flowers are such a delight to many people in all seasons of the year that all kinds of ingenious ideas are being shown for making it possible to have at least green vines anywhere in the house that can boast a little daylight and sunshine. A Chinese wall bird may be hung on the frame of a window, over a writing desk, over a mantel, or near the little table at the side of a bed, with yards of ivy trailing down over its plumage. Canary bird vines will grow almost anywhere that ivy will; and if the vase is hung close to the window nasturtiums can be substituted for the ivy. The earth that is put in the vase should not be kept too moist, and if there is a hole somewhere at the bottom for drainage the nasturtiums should freely bloom indoors.

Enormous Yearly Rainfall.
Rainfall is usually recorded in inches and fractions of an inch. One expert, however, declares that weather bulletins would be more graphic if the amount of rainfall were expressed in miles and tons. Thus, instead of having the official statement of the rainfall in one state for a certain year read, say, "forty inches," this expert would change it to read "forty three and nine-tenths cubic miles." He has calculated that the rainfall in one year throughout the United States amounted to 1,266.4 cubic miles of water, and that the annual rainfall weighs about 6,000,000,000,000 tons. Only a small part of that vast amount reaches the sea through rivers and streams; most of it is evaporated from the land.

Origin of Mine Gas.
An interesting suggestion has been offered concerning the source of the explosive gases in coal mines and the cause of their variation in quantity. In mining districts, it is pointed out, the earth's crust is always on the move, owing to the advance of the workings. Both above and below the seam that is being worked the rock strata are strained and rent by the removal of their support. Thus fissures are formed, and the imprisoned gas finds a way of escape into the galleries. Before its liberation it is probable that the fire-damp is under considerable pressure in its rocky prison.

"Layden Jar."
A layden jar is a glass jar or bottle used to accumulate electricity; so named from having been invented in Leyden, Holland. In its common form, it is coated with tin foil, within and without, well up toward its top, and is surmounted by a brass knob which communicates with the inner coating. To charge the jar, the knob is connected with an electric source and the outer coating with the ground. Electricity of the same kind as the source is then accumulated on the inner coating, and the opposite kind on the outer.

MYSTERY IN AUTOISTS' FIGHT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Lawrence, Mass., July 18.—A furious battle between the occupants of two automobiles was waged on the Salem highway near the New Hampshire line, shortly after 9 a. m. today. Police of Lawrence, Methuen and New Hampshire towns are investigating the affair.

Two Lawrence men giving the names of Thomas Maguire and Thomas McMann, are under treatment for bullet wounds at the Lawrence General Hospital. Their connection with the fight has not been established, however.

Two Lawrence girls, socially prominent, were in one of the machines. All the men in the affair are well known and prominent here, it is said.

Doubt is expressed as to the authenticity of the names given.

According to information now in the hands of the police, an automobile carrying four Lawrence men, giving their names as George O'Brien, Robert McCarthy, John J. Purcell and — Young, en route to this city, came upon a New Hampshire machine occupied by the two girls and four men. The first machine stopped and inquired if assistance was needed. Words were exchanged. Some of the men armed themselves with monkey wrenches and others with revolvers. Felix Nield, who lives nearby and who witnessed part of the battle, said he saw one man pursuing another with a pistol while the latter was being discharged at the heels of the latter.

Eight Straight For Ulen Nine.
Defeating the fast Argonnes at Ulen Field last Sunday by a score of 5 to 4 the Ulen baseball club recorded its eighth consecutive victory. The Argonnes are composed of the players selected from the newly organized Rip Van Winkle League, comprising the towns of Margaretville, Prattville, Roxbury and Arena. The game was keenly and cleanly contested and proved the most interesting and exciting contest staged at the Ulen Field this season. Next Sunday the Saugerties Independents will meet the Ulen baseball club at Ulen Field and another interesting game is anticipated.

Africa Grew First Coffee.
By far the greatest amount of coffee is grown in Brazil now, though it was not until 1740 that any coffee was grown there. The first coffee was grown in Africa and it was King Louis XIV who first thought of growing it elsewhere. He conceived the idea of growing it in the French West Indian colony of Martinique. From there it was introduced into other West Indian plantations and then by the Dutch into Java and Sumatra. It was introduced into India in 1700.

In the Capital's Early Days.
During the administration of John Quincy Adams the east room of the White House in which his mother had hung clothes to dry, was so gorgeously furnished that his rivals abused him for his extravagance. From the political stump, in the campaign of 1828, he was arraigned for having put a billiard table in the White House. And Adams found it necessary to prove that this had been bought and set up by his son from his own private allowance.

CULP SENT TO JAIL FOR YEAR

Thinks He Could Love Wife Better Now And Has Given Up Ability Must Also Pay $500 And Costs.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Kenia, O., July 18.—Rev. W. W. Culp, Spring Valley pastor, pleaded guilty to abandoning his family in probate court today and was sentenced to one year in the Dayton workhouse and fined $500 and costs as the result of his statement with Esther Hughes.

"I think I could love my wife better now than ever before," said the father of nine, who deserted them and the wife of his youth, to seek love in the arms of Miss Esther Hughes, 18, pretty and a music teacher. "She looks better to me today than she has for years."

Mrs. Culp, the deserted wife, and her nine children, including two of seven months, were among those who stood on the station platform and saw husband and father brought back to take the law. Mrs. Culp waved to her husband and in response he raised a mangled hand and smiled back at her and the children. No words were exchanged. None were permitted, and the recalcitrant churchman was hurried to the county jail to await the action of the court today.

Arriving there, he was willing to discuss his troubles.

"My wife wasn't a Christian," Culp asserted. "When she was angry, she would curse and no Christian can do that. I pleaded with her and prayed for her but to no avail. I assisted her in the care of the children and even fashioned dresses for the girls and helped with them on the machine. I never could get my wife to dress up. She sent us away. She made us leave, but I am willing to forgive her," he declared, magnanimously.

Culp, who is a cabinet maker and paper hanger, as well as preacher, said he worked for two weeks at the Hartman Furniture Company of Chicago.

He hotly denied charges made by T. J. Hughes, father of the girl with whom he forsook home and family, that he had ever had an affair with another girl. "Mr. Hughes is misled," Culp said. "I have never had another affair and I challenge the world to prove it."

"I think I ought to be given a chance," he contended. "I am willing to give Esther up. I have given her up."

Whether charges under the Mann Act will be filed against Culp will be decided today in Cincinnati, where Thomas J. Hughes, of Greenville, father of the pretty music teacher, is to consult District Attorney James R. Clark.

Mrs. Emma B. Squires, who suffered a broken hip a few days ago, died at her home on Ulster avenue, Saugerties, Sunday morning, aged 65 years. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lottie Dunham of Hunter, and a son, Charles Squires. A sister, Miss Carrie Baldwin, also survives. Deceased was the widow of the late Arthur Squires. The funeral was held this afternoon at the late residence, the Rev. B. M. Denniston, officiating. The body was taken to Maplewood cemetery, Hunter, for burial.

Miss Frances Williams, relative of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Banks of this city, died at the Kingston City Hospital Monday evening. Miss Williams was a prominent member of the St. Mark's A. M. Zion Church and her life was chiefly devoted to Sunday school work and for ever thirty-five years engaged in that connection in the church. She was assistant superintendent of the Sunday school at her death. She will be greatly missed by her many friends. The services will be held in the church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Wiltwyck cemetery.

The funeral of David J. Wilbur was held in the Methodist Church at Oneonta on Sunday afternoon. Representatives of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, including Lewis E. Carr, the counsel from Albany, many of the county officials of Otsego county, the city officials of Oneonta, the resident Supreme Court Justice, Kellogg, E. C. Cuykendall and H. H. Flemming, president and secretary, were in charge of the funeral. The services were in charge of the Rev. B. M. Jones, who referred to the deceased as Oneonta's first citizen, the truth of which was amply demonstrated by the fact that the church which is capable of holding from twelve to fifteen hundred people, was filled by friends and business associates of the deceased.

The funeral of the late Henry Stryker took place this afternoon from his late residence, No. 701 Broadway. The service was conducted by the Rev. Arthur Thompson of Fordham, N. Y., formerly pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, who was assisted by the Rev. O. A.

COLORED GIANTS AGAIN TOMORROW

Can They Repeat Victory of Ten Days Ago Over Colonials?—Bleachers Now In Use.

With a record of one victory already over the Colonials the McCannell Colored Giants will try to make it two straight at the Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon. The colored team came from behind in their first game with the Colonials a week ago Sunday, and a ninth-inning batting rally gave them a 10 to 5 victory over the Kingston club. The Colonials have yet to be beaten more than once by the same club, and they will fight hard tomorrow to even things up with the colored club. Captain Schirick has the choice of either Culliton, Scout or Wagner to work against the Giants, while Harvey, who defeated the Colonials before, will probably be opposed to the Kingston team. The new bleachers at the Fair Grounds are practically completed, several hundred fans making use of the new seating arrangements Saturday and Sunday. Play will be called for tomorrow's game at 6:15 p. m.

TAGGING THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

After tying the score with a three-run rally in the ninth, thanks to O'Doul's pinch single, the Yanks dropped their third straight to the White Sox when Strunk singled Falk across the plate with the winning run in the eleventh, 8 to 7. The Yanks smote nineteen hits, including Ruth's fifteenth homer of the season.

The Cards lost a ripe opportunity to pass the Giants in the National League race when they dropped a 3 to 2 decision to the champions. Speed on the bases decided the issue. Tony and Donk being a standoff in the matter of pitching. It was the Giants' first victory in five starts.

Led by Ty Cobb, who obliged with five hits in as many trips to the plate, the Tigers made merry at the expense of three Red Sox pitchers and won, going away, 16 to 7.

The Pirates came along from the surplussing rear in the late innings to beat the Dodgers 5 to 7. Hamilton relieved Yellowhorse and pitched good ball during the last five innings.

Daubert's triple was followed by Pucell's single in the tenth, and in consequence, the Reds went on about their business with an 8 to 7 victory over the Braves. The latter got away running in an early lead but could not stand prosperity.

This was very miserly with base hits, holding the Athletics to four all told, while the Indians got to Harris for a five to nothing verdict in the last few innings.

Everything was sweet until the eighth when the Cubs climbed aboard Meadows for three runs and pulled out a 3 to 2 victory. A perfect throw by Callahan cut down Henline at the plate, trying to score the tying run in the ninth.

Lights Out During Storm.
During the electrical storm last night the lights in the lower section of the city were out, leaving the bridges and the down town streets in total darkness.

SARAZEN MODEST GOLF CHAMPION

(By Davis J. Walsh)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 18.—It has been the custom of many golf champions since time immemorial to become quite unapproachable and exclusive, once the title was theirs. They suddenly sensed the magnitude of their own importance and the weight of their dignity was profound. They were not for every day acquaintance, so to speak.

You can look for nothing of that kind from Gene Sarazen, the excellent golfer who beat a great field of golfers for the national open title at Skeik last week. Gene is as glib as a Montana farm hand and just as unapproachable as a book agent.

His arrival in New York was typical of the boy's lack of affectation. He simply stepped off the train alone and unnoticed, and walked across the street to the Hotel Pennsylvania with the championship cup under his arm and thence to the desk where a golf fan recognized him.

He was surrounded by enthusiastic strangers the minute and he talked to all of them as though they were friends of long standing. He was not in a hurry to keep some vague and shadowy appointment, he was not annoyed by this seeming familiarity on the part of the Bourgeoisie, he enjoyed it. Gene was visiting.

How did it feel to be champion? It sure felt great. Was he nervous at any time during the final round? You bet your life he was. Golf would make the Sphinx a nervous wreck. What was he going to do with the cup? Take it home and show it to his mother. Did he feel confident that he would win it again next year? No-o-o. Just hopeful. Would he go abroad after the British open title? Yes. He figured that he had qualified for the attempt for the first time since he started playing golf.

These and hundreds more questions were asked him by total strangers before Gene was rescued by the hotel manager, who escorted him to the elevator under the mistaken impression that Sarazen was being bored by a lot of inquisitive louts. Gene actually seemed disappointed at the interruption.

That has been Sarazen's way since he first came into local notice by making a particularly good showing in the Metropolitan open championship of 1920. He knew he could play golf from the moment he quit the Apawamis links as a caddy but his innate modesty and good sense made him realize that he could win more honors with a mushie that he could with his mouth.

Always a factor in the championships, Sarazen did not, however, attain real prominence until last fall at Inwood when he disposed of Jock Hutchinson then British open champion, by an overwhelming score in one of the early rounds of Professional Golfers' Association championship. After the match, Sarazen was as easy to find as a night watchman at dawn.

He might have been around the score board, handshaking his way from left to right. But that is not Sarazen's way. He had won his match that day. All right, forget it. He might lose the next.

According to despatches from Pittsburgh he arrived at his home course at Highlands almost unannounced. The first to see him was a member of his own guild, a caddy. And it was well known that Sarazen at all, we will venture that he was vastly more pleased by the incident than if he was met at the station by a brass band and a Republican committee.

BACK in the old days—"goin' fishin'" required little preparation aside from a "can o' worms" and a cane pole. They were great days though—days which now live only in memory, but which are often referred to as "The Days of Real Sport."

However, those days are not really gone. Time has not changed our angling methods. Nowadays, they're "The Days of Real Sport" the days of going after game fish with the proper tackle, such as is shown here.
